TELEGRAPHIC.

WINNIPEG, November 17.

Highwaymen infest Montreal,
Railway accident near Quebec. Three killed.
Cleveland's speeches foreshadow tariff reform.
The temperance commission is going to California to take evidence.
A Belgian miner named Boele died near Calgary from exposure.
While stealing chickens at Pickering, Ontario, William Palmer was shot dead.
Dr. Neil Cream was hanged on Tuesday morning. He made no confession.
Word from Hugh Sutherland indicates that the Hudson's Bay railway may be built.
A mass meeting will be held in Montreal next week to discuss the future of Canada.
Frightful loss of life has occurred in China owing to the overflow of the Yellow river.
Highway robbers held up contractor O'Brien at Coteau Landing and robbed him of over $4,000.
The bust of Sir John Macdonald was unveiled by Lord Rosebery, on Wednesday in the crypt of St. Paul's cathedral.
A cable despatch says that Premier Abbott's health is improving. Nothing chronic is the matter. He may retain the premiership.
Mickelson and Skaalent stopped here on their way west and it was here they became acquainted and agreed to go to Edmonton to look up land. Mickelson left a trunk here containing Bibles and certificates of good character.

LOCAL.

No snow, and fine clear days, but cold nights.
Mrs. Ross of Saddle lake is in town visiting her daughter Mrs. S. S. Taylor.
W. C. Tims left for Lake St. Ann on Saturday with a large trading outfit.
LESSER Slave lake was frozen over on October 27th but thawed out at once.
W. S. ROBERTSON is erecting a large addition to his dwelling. R. Peters, builder.
THE ferries ceased running on Tuesday, but skiffs were crossing safely all day, as the ice was not thick.
X. ST. JEAN has leased his hotel in South Edmonton, the Commercial, to a Mr. Mallette, recently from Minnesota.
FITZGERALD & LUCAS, of Edmonton, have sold 10,000 acres of C. P. R. land since November 3rd, about half on Stony Plain and the other half near Beaver lake.
JOHN ECCLES, of Stony Plain, formerly of Winnipeg, has an interesting letter in the Free Press of November 9th describing accurately the advantages which Stony Plain offers to settlers, as shown by his own experience.
THE Chinese laundry, near the BULLETIN office, has been removed to the rear of the lot, and will be replaced on the front by the building formerly occupied as a drug store by Dr. Wilson. The Cartage Co. are making the removals.

A MAN named J. Reginbald, who was in Edmonton in August last peddling washing machines, is reported by the French Canadian papers recently to have outraged and murdered a little girl in the suburbs of Montreal. He has not been arrested.

THE fire brigade band gave a serenade on Monday evening last. Their performance showed most creditable progress under the instruction of bandmaster Beals. The members of this band have only been in possession of their instruments about two months.

E. T. SAUNDERS, proprietor of the Lethbridge News, is in town. He arrived on Monday's train.

DR. McINNIS has removed his office to the house next east of J. A. McDougall's store, on Jasper Avenue.

INSPECTOR PIERCY went to Red Deer on Tuesday's train to attend the inquest on the body of Ole Mickelson.

FLOWING was continued up to Saturday night last. It has now ceased for the season, as the ground has begun to freeze.

JOS. KELLY removed the dwelling that formerly stood on the ground expropriated by the town on the corner of Namayo and Jasper avenues, to a lot near Connor's furniture store, to-day.

ON Tuesday the Edmonton Cartage Co. ferried a car load of flour across the river for the H. B. Co., in small boats, as the scows had ceased running owing to floating ice. The flour had to be got across, as freighters were waiting to take it north.

MOOSOMIN Courier: "Mrs. Howard left yesterday morning to visit her parents at Chatham, Ont. After spending a short time there she will go to Fairmont, North Dakota, and remain with her husband, who is pastor of the Methodist church there." Mr. Howard was at one time stationed at Edmonton.

THOS. HENDERSON, of Rabbit Hill, is wintering over 40 hives of bees this season. The past summer has not been as encouraging as some others. The increase of swarms has been satisfactory, the number doubling. The flow of honey in the early part of the season was excellent, but it failed utterly in August and consequently instead of their being a surplus most of the swarms will have to be fed during the winter. This is the first experience of the kind that Mr. Henderson has had since commencing to keep bees here in 1888, there being always abundance of honey until the middle of September.

O'NEIL HAYES, of Wetaskawin, is in town. Mr. Hayes is government land guide at that point and also agent for Fitzgerald & Lucas, who sell the C. P. R. lands, and the Calgary & Edmonton railway company, who own the town site. The following is a list of the buildings erected in Wetaskawin this year: John West, general store; John Burch, general store; J. Z. C. Miquelon, general store; R. Bense, general store; M. Ambler, harness shop; T. B. Henderson, tailoring establishment; H. Deitrich, blacksmith shop; J. Gould, jr., livery stable; G. Greenwood, livery stable; A. Norman, hotel; J. Gould, sr., dwelling. There is no telegraph office yet at Wetaskawin, but one is much needed, and also a branch land office. At present entries have to be made at Red Deer, 60 miles south, entailing great expense to homesteaders. The country is well settled for about eight miles south, west and north of Wetaskawin, and for about twenty miles east. There are settlers 35 miles east. A big rush is expected next spring.

A meeting was held in Yorkton, at the nomination of candidates for the Wallace election, on Saturday, November 5th, which lasted from 2 p.m. until 11 p.m. It was addressed by Insinger, and McNutt, the candidates, and Messrs. Dill, Davidson, Haultain, Cayley, Patrick, Meadows and Crearer. Cayley said it was easier to attack than to defend. Haultain was not progressive enough and wasted valuable time. As an instance Haultain took two months to prepare his estimates, when he, Cayley, prepared his in 48 hours. He omitted to mention that he had adopted the estimates prepared by Haultain, only altering three or four amounts. The meeting was largely in favor of Insinger.

The addition of the vote of Ohio's electors to the Cleveland column, which is conceded, makes the total for Cleveland and Stevenson the largest ever given to any candidate for the presidency, and their majorities are the largest except those of Grant and Wilson in 1872. THE INQUEST.

RED DEER, November 15.

The coroner's jury empanelled to-day in regard to the case of Ole Micklson consisted of Messrs. Smith, Long, Cheeseborough, Piper and Jenkins; F. E. Wilkins, foreman; Dr. Hicks, coroner.

Annie McCrae and C. S. Sanders identified the body as that of the man stopped at the Hotel Edmonton with Skaalent, the murdered man.

John Longmore identified the body as that of the man he had seen running from the scene of the murder at Edmonton.

Inspector Piercy deposed as to the facts of the murder.

The parties implicated in the shooting at Red Deer refused to give evidence.

Brumpton and Richards said they arrived on the scene about two minutes after the shooting. They heard eight or nine shots fired. They saw the man on the ground, shot through the head. He was still breathing. Round the body were William Bell, Edward Plumb, R. Armstrong, William Slent, George Smith and John Jones.

Constable Warner said that when he arrived he saw the body on the ground and life was extinct. A revolver fully loaded was lying on the ground at the right hand. He found $315 on the body, and papers with the name "Ole Micklson."

The inquest was adjourned until 17th, Wednesday.

RED DEER, November, 16.

The inquest on the body of Ole Micklson was concluded to-day.

Plumb said he rode up to the man and recognized him from the description given as the murderer. He (Micklson) had a revolver in his hand. Witness told him he wanted to know his name and where he came from. Micklson offered witness $100 to let him go, but witness refused. Micklson then fired at witness and his horse jumped and threw him. Witness ran at Micklson, who ran into the bush, but was chased out and fired at witness again. Witness then fired at Micklson with a shot gun and followed him for some time. Fired three shots at him. Saw William Bell fire and saw Micklson drop.

Dr. Cochrane made the post mortem examination. Death resulted from a gun shot wound in the head. He also found numerous shot wounds in the back and legs.

William Bell made a statement as follows: Was at my work when I heard that the murderer was on the railway track. I got a gun and went out. Saw a man fire at Plumb, who fell off his horse. I followed the man through the bush and later saw him near the river. I called on him to stand and fired two shots at him. Called on him again then fired a third shot. The man fell. I went up to him and saw a revolver in his hand and a wound in his head. He died in half an hour.

The verdict of the jury was that death resulted from a gun shot wound inflicted by William Bell in self defence, and exonerating Bell from all blame.

J. J. Young, late editor of the Regina Leader, will be editorial manager of the amalgamated Moosomin paper to be issued shortly.

The Calgary Herald denies that it is going through a change of ownership. The change in progress is only one of management. Almost any change would be an improvement.

NOTICE.

Public notices whereby given that the court of Revision for the confirmation of the special assessments made under by-law No. 28 of the Municipality of the Town of Edmonton, will be held at the Town Clerk's office, Edmonton on the 28th day of November 1892 at 3 p. m.

The said special assessment is for the purpose of repaying the expenditure incurred in making certain local improvements, consisting mainly of opening, clearing, grading, levelling, putting in culverts, laying of wooden sidewalks, and crossings upon Jasper, Kinsistino, Namayo, Fraser, and Victoria, avenues and First, Milland Rowland streets, Edmonton.

The total amount of the assessment is $11,770.50.

Dated at Edmonton this 10th day of November, 1892.

St. George Jellett.

Assessor.

HUNTING THE MURDERER.

P. D. Campbell and A. Cameron returned from Red Deer on Wednesday night. They left Edmonton on Saturday afternoon in search of the murderer Mickelson. They first heard of him at W. Macdonnell's store, on Bear's Hill Plain, south of Wetaskawin, 50 miles from Edmonton. He went into the store about daylight on Saturday morning, bought some apples and biscuits and enquired if any Swedes lived in the neighborhood. He was directed to the house of a Swedish family, who lived near by, and went there where he slept all Saturday and Saturday night, taking the track again on Sunday forenoon about 10 o'clock. At Battle river, on Sunday, he stole a railway tricycle and pumped it to the next siding south, up grade all the way. There he abandoned it, pulling it off the track. Campbell and Cameron must have passed him on Sunday afternoon, but without seeing him, as they followed the trail while he followed the track. On Monday morning, early, when Campbell and Cameron left Elliot & McCue's stopping place, near the Wolf Creek siding, the tricycle was seen near there, showing as afterwards appeared that Mickelson had passed during the night. Evidently he had travelled all of the night of Friday (following the murder) and after lying up Saturday and Saturday night travelled all the remainder of Sunday and Sunday night, until he met his death on Monday forenoon at Red Deer. On Campbell and Cameron reaching Blind River, nine miles north of Red Deer, they enquired if he had been seen to pass, but he had not. However, they saw tracks of a man in the frost on the ties at the bridge, and felt confident they were near their man. Cameron then took the track afoot, while Campbell rode around by the trail. As Campbell was riding down the trail to Red Deer he heard the shots which put an end to the murderer, near by, but did not see the shooting owing to brush intervening, Cameron came down the track shortly afterwards. They had dinner at Red Deer and started for home, arriving last night. When going down they met the Red Deer police at Wolf Creek, coming north with orders to come through to Edmonton; but as the murderer had certainly gone south they turned back on Monday forenoon.

THE DALY BANQUET.

The Calgary Herald of the 12th gives a full report of the banquet given to the minister of interior in Calgary. The chair was occupied by Mayor A. Lucas, and the vice-chairs by Judge Rouleau and Major Walker. On the chairman's right sat the guest of the evening, and next to him D. W. Davis, M.P., and Mayor McCauley, of Edmonton. On his left sat Senator Loughheed and Mayor Bentley, of Lethbridge. Regrets were read from lieutenant-governor Royal, Senator Perley and N. F. Davin, M.P. The chairman proposed the health of the minister of interior in a short speech, in which he expressed the belief that the wishes of the west would now receive the consideration they were entitled to. The minister, although unable to stand up, owing to his broken ankle, replied in a lengthy, eloquent and appropriate speech. He had a Northwest experience since 1881, he had the people of the Northwest at his back; he approached his responsibilities with a love for the Northwest and as a true Canadian. Regarding immigration he said: "If the national policy were to be a success we must people these Territories to afford a market for the manufactures of the eastern part of the Dominion." In the interest of immigration he would work in conjunction with the C. P. R. and the local governments of Manitoba and the Northwest. Speeches suitable to the occasion were made by Messrs. Kribs, Bentley, Gallagher, Colpman, McCauley, Nolan, Costigan, Stewart and McHugh. The quartette club sang a number of pieces. The party dispersed about two p.m.

A BRIDGE NEEDED.

An accident, that was nearly being a most serious one, occurred at the upper Edmonton ferry crossing, on Tuesday afternoon. Wm. McKay, son of Hugh McKay, of Red Creek, and Mr. Stanilek attempted to ford the river, from the south side, with their teams, as the ferry was not running owing to the drifting ice. Stanilek's team came across all right, but McKay's became unmanageable about the middle of the river and got below the Big Stone, the ford being above. Mr. McKay managed to unhitch the horses and they reached the shore with great difficulty, one of them being nearly drowned owing to getting tangled in the harness, and would have been had not J. Graham gone into the water to assist him. In the meantime the wagon box had floated off the running gear with McKay in it, and was almost full of water. He was taken off in a skiff and the box was landed some distance below. The running gear remained in the rapids and will, no doubt, be lost, as only the rim of one wheel was above water. Had there not happened to be two skills plying across the river at the time McKay would almost certainly have been drowned.

REGARDING THE BRIDGE.

Mayor McCauley and councillors Goodridge and Daly interviewed the minister of the interior in Calgary, on Saturday, regarding a traffic bridge at Edmonton. The minister informed them that the cost of a bridge across the Saskatchewan was so great that it was not likely parliament could be induced to vote the whole amount; but if Edmonton showed its interest in the bridge by pledging itself to pay a fair proportion of the cost, he had no doubt parliament could be induced to make a sufficient grant to cover the remainder of the cost. The feeling was strong in the east that the Northwest cost too much money, and unless it was made plain that the expenditure was necessary it was difficult to secure its endorsement by parliament. The new minister seemed well-disposed towards Edmonton and anxious to secure all information possible regarding the place and its needs. The unfortunate accident which occurred at Maple Creek will detain the minister in Calgary for about ten days and will prevent his visiting Edmonton and Prince Albert, or the coast, as he had intended.

DEATH OF MICKLSON

It is not usual in this law abiding country to rejoice at the sudden and violent death of any man, but there is no doubt that the way in which the report of the death of the murderer Micklson was received on Monday last, was an exception. The murder of Friday was felt to be a terrible stain on the good name of this country that could only be wiped out by the speedy punishment of the murderer. The circumstances connected with his killing as gathered from passengers on Monday's train, are about as follows: He passed Leduc station on the railway going south, 20 miles from Edmonton, on Friday evening, about dusk. He continued his journey south along the track on Saturday, and on Saturday or Sunday possessed himself of a railway velocipede on which he made good time southward, and was seen on it in the vicinity of Lacombe station by Miles Norris. He appears to have abandoned the velocipede before reaching Red Deer. In the meantime the police at Red Deer had been notified by telegraph of his description and to be on the lookout for him. They, in turn, notified the people generally, who put themselves on the alert; while a police patrol went north along the trail to search for the murderer, but failed to meet him. On Monday forenoon a party of four or five civilians, of Red Deer, including two brothers named Bell, who live a couple miles north of the crossing, were skirmishing around, armed, near Bell's place, with a view of halting Micklson should he appear, as was expected he would. One of the Bells saw a stranger approaching from the north and went towards him. The stranger asked how far it was to Red Deer, Bell told him, and noticing the resemblance to the description given of the murderer, ordered him to surrender. Micklson offered Bell $10 to let him pass quietly, but Bell refused it. He then, it is said, offered him $100, producing some gold pieces from his pocket. Bell refused again and told him to throw up his hands, at the same time pointing his shot gun at him—the gun being empty. In answer Micklson put both hands in his coat pockets, and pulling a revolver out of each fired several shots at Bell, without striking him, however, although very close. The other members of the party hearing the shots came up, and Micklson, seeing them ran; they following, firing at him. Several shots were fired without striking him, but, at last, William Bell, brother of the man who had first halted him, shot him with a Winchester rifle, at a distance of about 75 yards. The bullet entered the back of the head and came out of the forehead, lifting the whole top of the skull. He died almost instantly, and probably never knew he had been hit. The shooting took place between eleven and twelve o'clock, within sight of the town, on the north side of the river, and the body was brought into town to await an inquest.
